CHARTREUSE THE CLASSIC

Founded in 1084 by Saint Bruno, the Order of Chartreuse has always had to work hard to be self-dependent. In 1605 after many years of experimenting with natural resources, the monks were given a mysterious manuscript by François Annibal d'Estrées, who served as sergeant for Henry IV at the time. Their first elixir was produced thanks to the extracts of 130 plants listed in the manuscript! In 1737, Brother Jérôme Maubec establishes the final recipe: The "Elixir Végétal de la Grande Chartreuse" is born!

It is still produced today and is at the origin of all the current liqueurs still made at Grande Chartreuse. The trade secrets of all these recipes are still guarded at the Grande Chartreuse Monastery. The chartreuse continues to age at Voiron, in the region of Isère, in the biggest liqueur cellar in the world
